

IN THE ABSTRACT:

Please replace the Abstract on page 51 with the following:

—A digital broadcast receiving apparatus for receiving a broadcast signal generated by combining sub signals modulated using a random sequence generated based on an initial value set in accordance with a frequency of a broadcast channel by a signal transmission control use signal and a main signal generated based on information source data and reproducing the information source data contained in the received broadcast signal.—